"Table Setting @ Important Projects" is the continuation of a group show of small sculptural works, first staged at Jancar Jones, Los Angeles. Displayed together on a table one quarter of the size of that in the first iteration of the show, the diminutive works will act together to establish a discursive relationship between materials and subjects, abstraction and narrative. Functioning as a simultaneously uniting and freeing force, the table removes the immediate walls of the gallery bringing the focus to a singular horizontal plane. The deliberate placement of the works on the table's top sets up a landscape of pieces, a miniaturized gallery but an equally, necessarily designed and ornamented environment, unavoidably suggestive of domestic surroundings.
